

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

There are disclosed a method, apparatus, computer, and program product for generating a strobe composite image from a plurality of frames of a moving image.

5 A first frame is selected from the plurality of frames of the moving image. A plurality of second frames relating to the first frame are determined. Then, a strobe composite image is generated by superposing the plurality of second frames in accordance with 10 a superposing manner.